

Bears working hard on and off field

TRISTEN MOORE
Reporter

After finishing the regular season 9-1, the football team is reflecting on how they have got this far and how they plan to continue onto the playoffs.

"The team is working extra hard in the weight room, in practice and in the classroom," linebacker Chris Silva said.

This year, players have had to take responsibility for their own actions as well as look out for each other. Coach Perry has set recommended tutorials for football players during the season.

"We're staying out of trouble and taking it one game at a time," Nick Gosnell said.

Some players attribute this new-found responsibility to the unity that's formed among players.

"We have become more of a family than we ever were before," Pete Rodriguez said.

This brotherhood has pushed players to work hard as a team. This team unity has shown in the team's progress from only two wins last year to only one loss this year.

"It has taken discipline from the whole team to get us this far," linebacker Chis Silva said, "and we hope that it will continue to push us through the playoffs."